There has been much speculation in these bonds, even since the Rusian revolution upset the market. Many speculators, attracted by the fantastic yields at the recent low prices, have bought them. That the report was not given much credence in the financial district was evident from the strong tone of the bonds on the curb market. weeks ago it said:

A permanent repudiation of all forcign obligations would put everything in the shade which has yet been experienced from the wickedest and weakest European debtors—such as the Portuguese. The history of state debts, at least in the nineteenth and twentieth centuries, knows no such impudent case, except in the civilized lands of Mr. Wilson, where some particularly distinguished states like Georgia have simply denied their obligations. From a purely Russian point of view the procedure must be described as a terrible risk. Russian needs enormous amounts of capital for the exploitation of her immeasurable natural wealth. Who will provide this capital after the present experiences? . . . Our opinion will seem all the more weighty to all unprejudiced persons because the measure which the Russians announce constitutes an absolute catastrophe for our chief enemies, while we Germans have become at present one of Russia's smallest creditors. . . A government like the Russian government, which is so very dependent upon the sympathies of the rest of the world, ought not to ignore the facts. If the Russian government refuses to listen to warnings against the proposed unconditional repudiation, the country will have to suffer severely for a long period from the incalculable consequences.

Some of the plants in this district have orders enough in sight to keep them busy for six months to come, without any new business at all. But new business is being offered in greater volume than the manufacturers can provide for, owing to the difficulty of procuring an adequate supply of workmen and [Special Correspondence] MINNEAPOLIS, Jan. 7. F. W. The suggestion meets with the ap terests here, who are beginning to in a formative stage. There are enough banks in Minneapolis now, they contend. As one observer facetiously remarked:

"One cannot throw a stone in Minneits apolis to-day without hitting a bank director, and the names of corner grocers, railway clerks and street car conductors are beginning to appear on the directorates."

Twelve new banks were organized in this city in 1917, a new one coming into being every thirty days on the average. There were thirty-eight a vear ago, and now there are fifty. These are the comparative figures: 1917. 1918.

If one goes back two years the com-parison is more striking. There are seventeen more banks here now than there were in 1916.

Some of these small banks which were first organized have been prosperous, and dividends have been paid within a year or eighteen months after organization. The field, therefore, has been an attractive one.

Whether the organization craze will continue through 1918 is what is worrying the heads of the larger banks and conservative bankers generally.

A Change in Time?

Ticker tape readers were much interested yesterday to notice that insisted of the usual "Hammonds time 2:15," which for over forty years has appeared every weekday except Saturday and holidays, there was printed "delivery time 2:15," Wall Street immediately reached the conclusion that the tSock Exchange had ordered a departure from its usual way of denoting that at 2:15 all sales made on the previous day must have been delivered. Inquiry at the offices of the exchange, however, showed that the change was probably an error, as those with authority to speak said they had no knowledge that any alteration had been ordered.

Following publication of the news that Max May had been temporarily relieved of his duties as vice-president and head of the foreign exchange department, the Guaranty Trust Company announced yesterday that Sigmund Metz had been appointed an assistant manager of the foreign department. Since May, 1915, Mr. Metz has been the South American representative of the bank, having been stationed at Buenos Ayres.

Concerning Mr. May's retirement, it was stated that he may return to the Guaranty Trust Company after the war. 'He is a German by birth, but is a naturalized American citizen, having lived in the United States during the last twenty-five or thirty years. Owing to his German origin, however, it was thought best not only by the Guaranty Trust board but by Mr. May himself that he sever official relationship with the bank to avoid any possible outside criticism.
